

Religious Studies Guide

The Religious Studies collection in Hillman Library contains materials with an emphasis on the social and cultural aspects of religion. Topics include religion and ritual, religion and politics, religion as it affects acculturation, religious thought and language, comparative religions, philosophy of religion, and the role of religion in contemporary society.

Materials of a theological or liturgical nature are not part of this collection. The majority of the titles purchased for the collection are housed in the BJ, BL, BQ, BR, BS, BT, and BX sections of Hillman Library. Bibliographies are shelved in the Z7751-7835 stacks.

The library materials in Hillman Library support teaching and research in the Department of Religious Studies. For additional information, please check the Department of Religious Studies website at the University of Pittsburgh.
