

The Frick Fine Arts Library is one of five Special Collections in the University Library System. Such collections include fragile, rare, and irreplaceable materials. Like those collections around the world, the ULS special collections take extra measures to preserve their materials. The special collections do not allow food and beverages, whether or not they are in covered containers, to be brought into their reading rooms or libraries.

We invite patrons with food and beverages to consume them in the Nicholas Lochoff Cloister of the Frick Fine Arts Building.

The Special Collections Food and Drink Policy was approved for this library in August 2001. Thank you for your cooperation!
